Hi Erin - Thank you for your email. It sounds like a great web-building project you are doing.

You can use YouTube's embed feature (via "share") to show videos from our channel on your pages.

We don't allow our content to be duplicated in other ways, however. So you can't copy the text or images from a project/resource and put that on a new site. Since some of the urls you've listed are for content on our site (not simply YouTube videos), I want to point out that difference.

You can show the video and link to those materials, but you wouldn't be able to set them up as pages on your own site.

If you have questions, please let me know.

Amy
